

To All Sylvain "Elvis " Leduc Fans ,

Just wanted to share our experience last weekend at the Elvis Festival in Quebec City.

Although a much smaller group of twelve were competing at this Elvis Festival, they all had fine voices. However, Sylvain's stood out as being the most like the King's.

There will be a presentation of trophies to the top three finalists.

Sylvain looked sharp in his wheat suit, the light blue and yellow one.

Performing for his fans being his passion, as usual he put everything into it. He was a little under the weather but that did not stop him from beautifully working the stage and crowd as he does at all of his shows. Even when he made his appearance into the hall people began applauding and telling him how great he looked.

The competition started at 10:00 A.M. with the first of twelve competitors performing.

Unlike other festivals, they paired the twelve contestants into duos. Each sang one song then performed another song together.

Then the judges did their work, based on quite a few categories they scored the duos individually based on the total performance and one was eliminated, the other moving on to the finals.

Sylvain was the fourth up and was paired with last year's winner Dario Roy. What a great way to start!

Our boy sang "Hurt" one of Elvis's more difficult songs to sing, and yes he nailed it! Wow! You guessed it, a long standing ovation.

As a duet Dario and Sylvain sang "You Gave Me A Mountain" This was a first experience for both and they were without a doubt the best of the six duos.

Sylvain was declared the winner of his duo and moved on to be one of the seven finalists.

I said seven and not six finalists because the committee allowed the audience to vote in one of the six that had been eliminated. Dario Roy, Sylvain's duo partner was the one voted back in.

As the seventh and last performer up in the finals, Sylvain sang "I Can't Stop Loving You" and received another great ovation.

Finally, Sylvain was declared the WINNER!

A great time was had by all. To date he entered two Elvis Festival competitions and won them both. First win in Lake George, New York and now in Quebec City.

Jean-Phillipe Carpentier was the runner up and Dario Roy finished third.
